

MCQ International is proud to present

Occupational Health & Safety Compliance Training

MCQ International has recently taken over management of CCH Australia's trusted Online Compliance Learning portfolio.

This popular Occupational Health & Safety (OHS) training module will provide staff at all levels of your organisation with a solid understanding of the importance of OHS in the workplace. Whether your work environment is an office setting, a construction site or a factory floor, the essential rights and obligations of staff and employers are explained in very practical terms. This course not only aims to impart knowledge about legal regulations and OHS concepts, but continually encourages each staff member to apply the knowledge to their own everyday situation, and to utilise concepts in practice.
